Acknowledgment of Traditional Owners

The City of Melbourne respectfully acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the land. For the Woiwurrung (Wurundjeri), Boonwurrung, Taungurong, Dja Dja Wurrung and the Wathaurung groups who form the Kulin Nation, Melbourne has always been an important meeting place for events of social, educational, sporting and cultural significance.

Today we are proud to say that Melbourne is a significant gathering place for all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Aboriginal Melbourne

The landscape surrounding the place where the Birrarung (the Yarra River) runs into the Nerm (Port Phillip Bay) is Kulin country; a place now known as Melbourne; a place that Aboriginal people, particularly those of the Kulin Nation, have lived on, cared for, gathered on and undertaken cultural rituals on for at least 30,000 years. This connection to country has continued since the arrival of Europeans in a variety of traditional and contemporary ways. While there are many stories and places in Melbourne that contain evidence of this connection to country, this is not always something that is apparent to people who live, work or visit Melbourne.

Where once the Kulin Nation used local trees for the creation of canoes and shields, their presence is still felt through the scarred trees that stand proudly in Fitzroy Gardens and Yarra Park.

Where once the people of the Kulin Nation gathered on the banks of the Birrarung, its importance is honoured and shared with everyone in Melbourne at Birrarung Marr.

Where once the Kulin Nation gathered for ceremonies, political and social gatherings on the land now known as the Melbourne Cricket Ground, we see their descendants, and the descendants of many other Australians, playing a game whose origins come from the Aboriginal game Marngrook.

This place we call Melbourne is Kulin country, Aboriginal country – Aboriginal Melbourne.

Statement of Commitment to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples

Aboriginal community involvement

Wherever possible, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples should be given opportunities to be deeply engaged on any issues relating to their cultural heritage. This document was produced in consultation with key Aboriginal community organisations, including the relevant Traditional Owner groups, the Victorian Aboriginal Heritage Council, Aboriginal Affairs Victoria, the Victorian Aboriginal Corporation for Languages and the Koorie Heritage Trust.

Where it fits

This document is one part of the City of Melbourne's engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures. Other key documents and programs that should be consulted regarding this engagement are the Reconciliation Action Plan and the Indigenous Arts Program. In relation to Aboriginal heritage, these actions should be seen as supplementary to those included in the 'Action Programme' for the Melbourne Heritage Strategy 2013 which aspires to a more holistic approach to heritage, including Aboriginal heritage values alongside those for non-Indigenous heritage.
